137				must comply with that Section) based on the charges set

139				Section 1026.14(c) and (d) of Regulation Z, the amount of

- B) Any fee for a credit-related ancillary product sold in connection with the credit transaction for closed-end credit or an account for open-end credit.
- 3) Standards Relating to Bona Fide Fees
 - A) Like-kind fees. To assess whether a bona fide fee is reasonable under paragraph (d)(1) of this Section, the fee must be compared to fees typically imposed by other lenders for the same or a substantially similar product or service. For example, when assessing a bona fide cash advance fee, that fee must be compared to fees charged by other lenders for transactions in which consumers receive extensions of credit in the form of cash or its equivalent. Conversely, when assessing a foreign transaction fee, that fee may not be compared to a cash advance fee because the foreign transaction fee involves the service of exchanging the consumer's currency (e.g. a reserve currency) for the local currency demanded by a merchant for a good or service, and does not involve the provision of cash to the customer.
 - B) Safe harbor. A bona fide fee is reasonable under paragraph (d)(1) of this Section if the amount of the fee is less than or equal to an average amount of a fee for the same or a substantially similar product or service charged by 5 or more lenders each of whose U.S. credit cards in force is at least $3 billion in an outstanding balance (or at least $3 billion in loans on U.S. credit card accounts initially extended by the lender) at any time during the 3-year period preceding the time such average is computed.
 - C) Reasonable fee. A bona fide fee that is higher than an average amount, as calculated under paragraph (d)(3)(B) of this Section, also may be reasonable under paragraph (d)(1) of this Section depending on other factors relating to the credit card account. A bona fide fee charged by a lender is not unreasonable solely because other lenders do not charge a fee for the same or a substantially similar product or service.
 - D) Indicia of reasonableness for a participation fee. An amount of a bona fide fee for participation in a credit card account may be reasonable under paragraph (d)(1) of this Section if that amount reasonably corresponds to the credit limit in effect or credit made available when the fee is imposed, to the services offered under the credit card account, or to other factors relating to the credit card account. For example, even if other lenders typically charge $100 per annum for participation in credit card accounts, a $400 fee nevertheless may be reasonable if (relative to other accounts carrying participation fees) the credit made available to the consumer is significantly higher or additional services or other benefits are offered under that account.

4) Effect of Charging Fees on Bona Fide Fees

- A) Bona fide fees treated separately from charges for credit insurance products or credit-related ancillary products. If a lender imposes a fee described in paragraph (c)(1) of this Section and imposes a finance charge to a consumer, the total amount of the fee(s) and finance charge(s) shall be included in the PLPA APR pursuant to paragraph (c) of this Section, and the imposition of any fee or finance charge described in paragraph (c)(1) of this Section shall not affect whether another type of fee may be excluded as a bona fide fee under this paragraph (d).
- B) Effect of charges for non-bona fide fees. If a lender imposes any fee (other than a periodic rate or a fee that must be included in the PLPA APR pursuant to paragraph (c)(1) of this Section) that is not a bona fide fee and imposes a finance charge to a consumer, the total amount of those fees, including any bona fide fees, and other finance charges shall be included in the PLPA APR pursuant to paragraph (c) of this Section.
